

Interested in being part of a larger juvenile justice influence in Pennsylvania?

JDCAP has recently redefined their membership to be inclusive of all juvenile detention and alternative programs!

About Detention and Detention Alternative

Juvenile Detention and Alternative Programs play a critical role within the juvenile justice system for children, youth, families and communities in the Commonwealth. These programs balance the needs and welfare of the child, respects the experiences of the victim and preserves the safety of the community. Detention centers and alternative programs are services for justice involved youth designed to offer interventions in the least restrictive environment balancing community safety and successful community re-engagement.

Juvenile detention and detention alternative programs provide varying levels of supervision and custody from secure housing to community-based supervision. In addition these programs may offer screening and assessment to determine behavioral health need, medical services, risk reduction interventions, career and academic programming, exposure to community volunteers, and additional treatment planning. All of these programs provide services that help youth gain knowledge and skills to become productive and law abiding members of their communities.

What is JDCAP?

Juvenile Detention Centers and Alternative Programs (JDCAP) is a professional nonprofit organization that was incorporated in 1978 and has been an affiliate of the County Commissioners Association of Pennsylvania (CCAP) since 1997. JDCAP represents the interests of secure juvenile detention centers, shelters, and community-based services for pre-adjudicated youth across the Commonwealth.

JDCAP is dedicated to supporting its members by:

- recommending and promoting sound policies and practices
- educating and communicating information on detention policy and practice to professionals in the field
- conducting and promoting research, training, and education
- creating effective relationships with government and professional organizations.

JDCAP MEMBERSHIP BENEFITS

Marketing/Visibility

Members have the option to market their services through JDreCAP, the association's weekly newsletter. JDreCAP is distributed to all member facilities, Chief Juvenile Probation Officers, and a wide array of juvenile justice stakeholders and professionals across Pennsylvania. Members also have the ability to promote their program through the Annual Juvenile Justice Conference and other JDCAP hosted events. Members will have the opportunity to place advertisements in the member directory and annual conference booklet. A link to each member's website will be placed on JDCAP's website. JDCAP participates in CCAP Human Services Committee meetings to provide guidance and to seek support on many issues that impact our profession. JDCAP is also engaged in a synergistic relationship with other state agencies and statewide associations such as JCJC, the Chief's Association, PCCD, OCYF, Providers, and County Human Service Associations. As a member, you will have the ability to offer your expertise through JDCAP as we seek to influence policy.

Cost Savings

Members receive discounted registration fees for JDCAP sponsored events. JDCAP also offers limited access to scholarships for members to our conference and select national conferences. JDCAP has already offers members a variety of opportunities to experience cost savings by taking advantage of association contracting. Some of these savings can be experienced by accessing our web-based case management system, specialized training sessions, and association contracting.

INFORMATION

Members are granted access to the secured portion of the JDCAP website which contains documents of interest and other valuable resource information such as sample policies, training curricula, and easy access to state issued bulletins and announcements. Members will also be added to the distribution list for current juvenile justice information, JDCAP sends out new information as soon as they receive it. Members also have access to training opportunities, forums, and specialized programs for trainers. The trainings address issues specific to administration leadership, mid-management, education, nursing, and staff development issues and trends. Members have the ability to influence policy at a global level through JDCAP representation at regional and national forums such as: The National Partnership for Juvenile Services, Mental Health/Juvenile Justice Collaborative for Change, meetings with the Bureau of Human Services Licensing, the Chief Juvenile Probation Council, and other DPW workgroups. JDCAP staff track and regularly report legislative activities impacting juvenile justice facilities allowing for improved advocacy on positions as a statewide association.

ACCESS

JDCAP membership also includes access to fellow members through quarterly meetings, board representation, and committee participation. JDCAP members share a wealth of knowledge and understand that collaboration and team work leads to impressive outcomes. JDCAP provides an online member directory that includes agency information and a link to the agency's home site. Additionally, members are encouraged to offer input on JDCAP's membership agenda, strategic planning process, and identification of legislative priorities. Members also hold voting privileges on issues impacting the association and may hold positions of leadership representing association membership.

PAYMENT

Make checks payable to JDCAP and mail along with the enclosed form to PO Box 2789 Old Post Road, Harrisburg, PA 17106, Attn: Lori Lawyer.
